O. , 2005. LC Number: KF26 . C69 2001zn OCLC Number: (OCoLC)62204726 Subject: Automobiles -- Fuel consumption -- Standards -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 rior mirrors reduces wind drag. That improves the economy by 5 percent. That might cost a little bit more, 20 or so per vehicle. The point is, the technology is there, it exists in the marketplace, at a very modest cost to increase the fuel efficiency, and I say get on with the job. I would also say that we do not have to have an economy exclu-sively dependent upon oil, no matter where the source. It is par-ticularly abhorrent that so much of it is foreign-based. We can have alternative fuel vehicles. I am involved in a little venture right now with the U. S. Postal Service. The U. S. Postal Service is right now in the first phase of a contract to purchase 500 electric vehicles for use in areas like the Los Angeles Basin, which is an area of non-attainment in clean air standards. It is going to use electric vehicles. Coincidentally, they happen to be manufactured by a consortium of Ford Motor Com-pany and Baker Electromotive in my congressional district, so un-derstandably I am a cheerleader, but not just because it provides jobs in my district. It is innovative. It is something for the future. It is so because it lessens our dependence on foreign sourced oil, at the same time helping us to meet the high Clean Air Act standards that we all want to meet. ELSON Senator N. Mr. Chairman, l...
