Frank Lloyd Wright s Robie House: The Illustrated Story of an Architectural Masterpiece (Paperback)

By Professor Donald Hoffmann

Dover Publications Inc., United States, 1985. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 267 x 241 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Frank Lloyd Wright firmly believed that life could be formed anew if new form could be brought to its setting, architecture. His revolt against customary architectural design was shared by rugged individualist Fred C. Robie, who chose Wright to build his dream house in 1908. In this painstakingly researched and illuminating account of the design and construction of the Robie home, a noted architectural authority presents an in-depth study remarkable for clarity and thoroughness. At age 28, Robie had become a highly successful businessman who conceived the idea of building a grand home in his native Chicago. He insisted on a design incorporating features that were innovative for the day: hallways and stairwells situated to conserve valuable space, rooms that suggested feelings of airiness, and narrow trimmings on doorways and windows, among others. Robie s wish to shape space as a means of personal expression meshed with Wright s own feelings and spirit. The two strong-willed men formed a perfect union: Robie had found his architect and Wright his ideal client. Drawing on revealing family documents, including a 1958 interview...
